10-Day U.S. Earth Orbit Mission Opens

Border Island Is Disputed By Commies

TOKYO (AP) — Red Guards and workers demonstrated around the Soviet Embassy in Peking today after Chinese and Soviet troops clashed on a disputed river island on the Manchurian border.

Both Moscow and Peking announced "many killed and wounded" in the battle Sunday.

Japan's Kyodo news agency said crowds of demonstrators ringed the Soviet Embassy in the Chinese capital, carrying placards reading, "We strongly protest the Soviet provocation" and, "Hang Kossygin," a reference to Soviet Premier Alexei Kossygin.

The Soviet Union and Red China accused each other of crossing the border Sunday, and China said it was the 18th Soviet violation in two years.

Although similar clashes have been reported between Chinese and Russian border troops in the past, it was believed to be the first time Peking and Moscow exchanged protest notes over such an incident.

Peking's New China News Agency said the battle occurred on an island in the Ussuri River, which forms part of the border between Red China and the Soviet Far East.

The Chinese called the island Chenpao and claimed it is "indisputable Chinese territory." The Soviets called it Damansky and said it constitutes their Nizhnekhailovka border post.

The island is 200 miles north of Vladivostok. The Chinese Foreign Ministry said "large numbers of fully armed" Soviet troops crossed into Chinese territory in four armored cars and trucks despite repeated warnings from Chinese border guards and "outrageously" opened cannon and gun fire, killing and wounding many Chinese frontier guards.

It said the Chinese were "compelled to fight back in self-defense" and gave the Soviet soldiers "punishment which they deserved."

The Soviet version, reported by the news agency Tass, said: "Chinese violators of the frontier were chased away from Soviet territory by the resolute actions of Soviet border guards." It added there were "killed and wounded" but did not say whether they were Chinese or Russian.

Frei Suffers Big Setback In Elections

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Eduardo Frei's moderately leftist Christian Democratic party suffered a sharp setback in Sunday's congressional election.

Biggest gains were scored by the conservative National party, which appeared to profit from opposition to Frei's program of liberal reform.

It appeared that the Christian Democrats would lose at least 20 seats and their four-year-old majority in the 10-member Chamber of Deputies. But a field of strong candidates and the complexities of election laws helped the party win 12 of the 30 Senate seats at stake.

The Christian Democrats continued to have the largest factions in both houses, but their share of the total vote dropped to 30 per cent down from 42 per cent in the 1965 congressional elections and 35.6 per cent in the 1967 municipal elections.

The National party more than doubled its seats. Its gains sent supporters flocking to the home of former President Jorge Alessandri to ask him to run again next year as the conservative standard bearer.

Frei cannot succeed himself.

Viet Red Troops Continue Attacks On Cities, Bases

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy troops attacked another U.S. Marine base below the demilitarized zone today and shelled Saigon and more than 30 other towns and allied bases in the ninth day of the Viet Cong's spring offensive.

Scores of North Vietnamese troops, blazing away with machine guns and rifles, attacked about 300 Marines at an artillery base four miles southeast of the DMZ. The Marines turned their artillery on the attackers, and the fighting was still going on seven hours after the first attack.

U.S. headquarters said at least 17 North Vietnamese and "some" Marines had been killed.

It was the fourth time since the enemy offensive began that heavy fighting had broken out just below the DMZ. The area had been relatively quiet since the Nov. 1 bombing halt. Three 100-pound Soviet rockets hit Saigon, killing 12 Vietnamese civilians, wounding 29 others and wrecking more than 30 houses just before dawn. A South Vietnamese spokesman called the attack "savage, barbarous and bloodthirsty."

One of the six-foot missiles smashed into the ground three yards from a crowded children's hospital ward. The blast sprayed chunks of metal about, ripped through shutters and smashed mirrors and walls, but only one of the 72 children was injured. A 13-year-old girl got a slight cut on her head.

Another rocket tore through the roof of a house in a crowded residential area on the southern edge on the city, killing a family of nine and touching off fires that spread to more than 30 of the small, two-story tin-roofed houses. Three other civilians were killed and 25 wounded.

Late Winter Storms Batter Atlantic Coast, Great Plains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Late winter storms continued to move across the nation today, burying the northern Atlantic coast and southern Great Plains under heavy snow and whipping the Pacific Northwest with strong rain and winds.

A coastal disturbance blanketed the Northeast with more than a foot of snow as northeasterly gales swept the drifts inland. Churning snow reduced visibility to less than a mile in some sections.

In upstate New York, Middletown was covered by 21 inches of snow and West Point, home of the U.S. Military Academy, recorded 13 inches. But the storm spared New York City, which had made extensive preparations for snow clearing after warnings were posted.

Long Island, which measured 5 inches of snow, braced for additional accumulations of 4 to 6 inches.

Spring seemed within sight, however, at Newburgh, N.Y., where residents reported a robbery in a building a nest amidst the storm which blanketed the community with 8 inches of snow.

In the Great Plains, snow continued to fall over the western portions of Kansas and Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle, which recorded accumulations of 8 to 10 inches during the preceding 24 hours.

Snow and cold rain pushed into the lower Mississippi Valley, producing hazardous driving conditions. Travelers' warnings were posted for the Texas Panhandle, Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee.

Rain soaked the coastal sections of the Pacific Northwest and snow whitened the mountains as a disturbance continued its barrage.

Deny Injunction Against Workers

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A federal judge at Charleston, W. Va., Saturday denied a request for an injunction to force some 40,000 coal miners back to work.

Judge John A. Field Jr. said the injunction was denied because of the lack of authority of U. S. District courts to grant them in such cases.

Attorneys representing 27 coal operators' associations argued that the mass walkout constitutes a breach of contract. David M. Johnson of Charleston argued the point for about one hour.

Give Highlights Of Apollo 9 Space Mission

3rd Day Seen Most Important In Many Ways

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Here are the highlights of the 10-day earth orbit flight planned by Apollo 9 astronauts James A. McDivitt, David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart: First Day

Command ship, lunar module, (LEM) and third stage into 1.9-mile high orbit. Nearly three hours later, command ship separates, turns around and docks nose-to-nose with LEM. Third stage separates and ground stations fire its engine twice in tests that send stage into solar orbit.

Second Day Astronauts check out operation of combined space ships, including three firings of main engine which shifts path of orbit to elliptical between 132 and 311 miles high.

Third Day In first space ship transfer by American astronauts, McDivitt and Schweickart crawl through three-foot connecting tunnel into LEM and activate its systems. They televise a program from the LEM and fire the LEM descent engine while still docked. This engine's designed to lower the craft to the moon. They re-

Drag Racing Accident Fatal To 11

COVINGTON, Ga. (AP) — Spokesmen for major car-racing organizations and Gov. Lester Maddox called for stricter safety precautions after an accident at a Covington track killed 11 spectators and injured at least 46.

The accident Sunday at the Yellow River Drag Strip occurred when a fiberglass Camaro weighing less than 1,000 pounds and traveling around 130 miles an hour went out of control about 250 yards from the finish line. The racer crashed into an embankment, went over a wire fence and mowed down the crowd lining the track.

There was no guard rail. "People were thrown up in the air," said Alice Black of Atlanta. "Some of them fell back onto their cars. When we tried to get out of the area, we saw bodies lying between the cars."

"One man got caught up under the racer," said Jimmy Edwards, 13, of Atlanta. "It must have dragged him at least 100 feet." Sidney Castleberry Jr., 25, of Kennesaw, said "people were terror-stricken. They were screaming and yelling."

Several witnesses said the track announcer had warned spectators to move back from the track at the start of the two-car quarter mile race. No one moved and the race went on.

The driver of the wrecked car, Huston Platt, 35, of Atlanta, walked away uninjured. He was later treated for shock at a hospital and put to bed at home, said his wife, who added that he was unable to speak to anyone about the accident.

POISED — The Apollo 9 poised atop its Saturn rocket on launch pad at Cape Kennedy blasted off on its 10-day Earth orbiting mission to test docking in space and other operations necessary for the actual Moon landing mission to follow, probably next July.

Officer Says Wrong Order Brought Aquanaut's Death Requirement

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — One of the aquanauts in Sealab 3, the Navy's deep-sea living experiment, says it was wrong to order the dive in which a fellow crewman died.

A board of inquiry into the death of aquanaut Berry L. Cannon, 33, also was told of a series of mishaps and what the project chief, Cmdr. J. M. Tomsky, called instances of tampering with equipment.

There will "almost certainly" be an investigation, a Navy spokesman said. The current inquiry deals only with Cannon's death.

The aquanaut died Feb. 17, minutes after leaving a personnel transfer capsule in an effort to stop helium leaks in the Sealab habitat on the ocean floor 610 feet deep.

Cleveland School Trouble Continues

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — School Supt. Paul W. Briggs has set more talks on problems at John Hay High School but isn't saying when the troubled East Side school will reopen.

In a television appeal Sunday night, Briggs asked for community support and said "the next 24 hours will be devoted exclusively to the problems of John Hay—discussions with persons who live in the area, with parents whose children attend John Hay and those who are associated with its problems."

"The dive should never have been made," the investigators were told Sunday by aquanaut Richard Blackburn, 30, who retrieved Cannon. "We were all pushed to a point where mistakes were inevitable. Our bodies had not adjusted to depth . . . We had aches and pains in our joints . . . Our mental and physical dexterity was affected by the cold."

An autopsy said Cannon died of carbon dioxide poisoning. A breathing apparatus which may have been his was later found to be lacking chemicals needed to filter carbon dioxide.

Tomsky said that as the surviving aquanauts were undergoing decompression "on two separate occasions an oxygen valve in the emergency breathing system was opened. Then a third apparent tampering with the valve occurred—the valve was partially cracked open."

If another main valve had been opened, Tomsky said, pure oxygen would have flushed into the chambers and killed the aquanauts.

After the third incident, he said, he posted guards at the two decompression chambers on a 24-hour basis.

Protestants Set Church Service At St. Paul's

NEW YORK (AP) — The congregation of the Broadway Church of Christ is going to hold future services at the Roman Catholic Church of St. Paul the Apostle.

After the first half of the service Sunday at the Protestant church, the 240 worshippers marched from Broadway and 56th Street to the Catholic church at 60th Street and Columbus Avenue, about a 10-minute trip.

The Rev. Lawrence L. Durgin and his parishoners were greeted in front of the church by the Rev. Francis X. Ryan, St. Paul's is turning over the 11 a.m. Sunday Mass time to the other congregation.

The land on which the 64-year old Broadway church stands has been sold to a real estate developer.

Rocket Sends Astronauts Off On Schedule

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Riding the fearsome power of a Saturn 5 super-rocket, the Apollo 9 astronauts hurtled into earth orbit today to start a marathon mission in which they are to qualify a fragile ugly duckling spacecraft to land men on the moon.

The Apollo 9 rode the 36-story rocket, the world's most powerful, into orbit just 11 minutes after the Saturn 5 lifted off the pad. The orbit ranged from 118 to 119 miles above the earth, just about perfect.

"We're real proud of you," Flight director Eugene Kranz beamed toward space.

"Everybody here is happy," he said. "So are we," replied Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt, the spacecraft commander.

While hearts beat faster on the ground, the astronauts showed just about the level of excitement that flight surgeons expected, except for civilian astronaut Russell L. Schweickart, making his first space flight.

McDivitt's heart was beating at 135 beats a minute, and Air Force Col. David R. Scott's heart was beating at 120 a minute. But Schweickart's heart was ticking away at only 82 beats a minute, only about ten beats faster than normal.

He called down to earth, "This is a rookie saying everything is looking beautiful."

Almost immediately, the astronauts began checking out the complex, computerized systems in their $55 million spacecraft. Ahead are complicated maneuvers between the spacecraft and the lunar module which is making its first flight in space. It is the odd craft that will actually land two men on the lu-

Requirement On Teaching Of Drugs Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Legislation requiring public schools to teach about the harmful effects of LSD, glue sniffing and dangerous drugs will be introduced into the Ohio House this week.

Sponsors are Reps. James P. Celebrezze, D-50 Brook Park and George E. Mastics, R-52 Fairview Park, Norman E. Murdock, R-70 Cincinnati and Mack Timberlton, R-61 Columbus.

Mastics was the author of a recently enacted anti-LSD law. He currently has a bill in the House prohibiting the illegal use and sale of pep pills and one to outlaw glue sniffing.

Celebrezze, a former school teacher, said in less than two years 36 teen-agers have killed themselves by inhaling over-doses of toxic fumes from pressurized aerosol cans.

"This senseless self-destruction has got to stop," Celebrezze said. "The best prevention is to teach our children the terrible dangers of these deadly drugs."

Murdock said a recent survey of 5,542 high school juniors in 26 Hamilton County schools revealed that almost 11 per cent used one or more of the stimulants.

Concorde Test Flight Success

TOULOUSE, France (AP) — After a successful maiden flight, the British-French Concorde, the western world's first supersonic airliner, began a three-year program of tests today.

Adverse weather delayed the first flight since Thursday, and the huge four-engine jet was forced to fly below 3,000 feet Sunday instead of around 12,000 feet. Increasing ground winds cut the scheduled 40-minute flight to 27. And the plane did not get over 350 miles an hour, though she is designed to fly at 1,400 m.p.h.

Nevertheless, chief test pilot Andre Turcat, 47, said the Concorde "behaved perfectly" in her 90-degree sweep around this area of southwest France. British government officials and aircraft executives called the flight a "soaring triumph."

Lunar Module Is Keystone Of Apollo 9's Mission

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston, (AP) — America's machine for landing men on the moon looks like a giant version of something a housewife would chase with a fly swatter. Or possibly run from.

The machine was originally called a Lunar Excursion Module, or LEM. "Excursion" has been dropped from the official name but astronauts and other spacemen continue to call it LEM. They also call it "the spider" because of its resemblance to that insect.

LEM flies with men aboard for the first time on Apollo 9. Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt and Russell L. Schweickart will give the space craft a thorough workout in the earth orbit mission.

LEM has none of the slick lines one would expect of a flying machine. It's ugly, clumsy-looking and totally without grace. The outside walls of the craft are a soft, cellophane-like material a man could easily push a foot through.

The spider certainly lacks the look of a noble vessel of exploration. It's more like some weird thing not for this world. But, actually, the lunar module is both.

The 23-foot-tall, 32,000-pound

LEM is the first manned spacecraft designed to operate only in other space. LEM cannot fly unprotected in earth's atmosphere and would burn up quickly if it tried to land on earth from space.

LEM is a specialist designed to be carried piggy back to an orbit of the moon, fly two men to the surface, support them while they explore, then divide itself and carry the astronauts back to a rendezvous with the command and service module waiting in lunar orbit.

Since it never flies in "air", or atmosphere, LEM has no need for a sleek aerodynamic shape.

LEM has two stages, a descent stage which is never manned or pressurized, and an ascent stage, which sits on top and contains the crew compartment.

The descent stage is a 12 by 14 foot eight-sided box with four spidly legs angling down and outward. On the flat bottom side of the box is the bell of the descent engine. A platform and a ladder are attached to the leg on the forward side of the descent stage.

The ascent stage is a collection of circles, squares, and triangles on the outside around an airtight pressure vessel for the crew.

There are two hatches and three windows on the ascent stage. A round hatch on the top of the stage is combined with a docking collar and is part of a tunnel the crewmen use to transfer from the command module to the LEM.

A square hatch in front of the vehicle is used by crewmen going to the lunar surface. It is just above the platform and ladder on the descent stage.

Above and on either side of the square hatch are triangular windows which look like eyes on the space spider. A rectangular window next to the round hatch is used for rendezvous.

The lower stage contains the descent propulsion engine, a 9,800-pound thrust rocket which can be throttled. It is used to lower LEM from a lunar orbit to a landing on the moon. The engine can be gimbaled up to six degrees away from the center axis, permitting the crew to steer with the engine.

The ascent engine gives a steady 3,500 pounds of thrust and cannot be throttled or gimbaled.

The two stages are locked together with explosive bolts. When they separate, the bolts blow apart and the ascent stage engine is ignited.

Pathet Lao Units Open Big Attack

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — More than 1,000 Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese troops overran a major government outpost Sunday, killing at least 30 defenders and inflicting the worst defeat on Laotian troops in more than a year, a Defense Ministry source said today.

Another reliable source said a U.S. jet fighter-bomber was shot down when heavy air strikes were called in an attempt to save the Na Khang outpost, 10 miles from the headquarters of the 2nd Military Region and 150 miles northeast of Vientiane.

The Defense Ministry sources said five enemy battalions, four of them North Vietnamese, opened the attack with heavy shelling by 122mm rockets and 82mm mortars. One mortar shell crashed through the roof of a hilltop command post, killing Col. Panh Siharath, the area military commander and province chief.

Robert Reese of Route 1, Orient reported the theft of several power tools from a house he is building.

Reese told Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Warren Straley that Saturday afternoon he locked the tools inside of a house he was building. When he returned to the house Sunday the tools were missing.

The thief took several power hand saws, a large table saw, plumbing fixtures and other power tools according to Reese. The incident is still under investigation.

If the three daring spacemen succeed in qualifying the spider-like lunar module (LEM), they could clear the way for two astronauts to land on the moon in June or July. If the LEM does not work, America's lunar timetable could be set back indefinitely.

A scheduled Friday launch had to be postponed after all three astronauts developed sore throats and stuffy noses.

During 10 days in earth orbit they are to thoroughly evaluate the LEM, which has been called a "missing link" because it is the only major piece of Apollo hardware yet to be tested.

The ungainly appearance of the spindly-legged vehicle has earned it the radio code name "spider."

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration rates Apollo 9 the most complex man-in-space flight yet, even more difficult to carry out than the Apollo 8 moon orbit journey.

He was a furniture salesman for the J. C. Penny Co., at Chillicothe.

He is survived by his widow, Pauline Arledge McKenzie; one daughter, Sue Ann McKenzie, four stepsons, George Chaffin, stationed in Germany in the U.S. Army; Gary Chaffin, stationed in Vietnam in the U.S. Army; Rick Chaffin and Dan Chaffin, both of the home; two stepdaughters, Mrs. Debra Colder, Circleville; Brenda Chaffin of the home; two step-grandchildren: three brothers, Lawrence McKenzie, Route 4; Cyril McKenzie, Columbus; John McKenzie, Circleville; three sisters, Mrs. Antonette Kiehl, Portsmouth; Miss Evangela McKenzie and Miss Esther McKenzie, both of Columbus.

Funeral services will be 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at Deffenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. Harry Hill officiating.

Burial will be in Salem Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 7 p.m. today.

MRS. HAROLD CAIN

Mrs. Phyllis June Cain, 43, Route 2, Williamsport, was killed in an automobile accident near Williamsport 9:45 a.m. Saturday.

Born Nov. 15, 1925, she was the daughter of Charles C. and Edith Fetherolf Weaver. Her mother survives at Route 2, Williamsport.

Mrs. Cain is also survived by her husband, Harold A. Cain; five sons, Harold Charles, Nicholas Edmund, Timothy Quinton, Perry Frederick and Mark Anthony; two daughters, Edith Marchanne and Christina Catherine, all of the home.

Funeral services will be 2 p.m. Tuesday in Mader Funeral Home with the Rev. Foster Jenne officiating.

Burial will be in Spring Lawn Cemetery, Williamsport. Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 4 p.m. Monday.

MRS. KATIE E. DENMAN

Mrs. Katie Ellen Denman, 66, 313 S. Washington St., died 6:50 a.m. Sunday at her residence.

Born Jan. 6, 1883 in Circleville, she was the daughter of John W. and Mattie Bechtal Greeno.

Her husband, Harry B. Denman, and two children, Anna Marie and Harry (Dick) Denman, preceded her in death.

Survivors include four sisters, Anna R. Greeno, and Bess L. Simison, both of 216 S. Pickaway St.; Mrs. Charles H. (Sadie) Radcliff, 359 Northridge Road; Mrs. Hayward (Mary) Pugh, Lexington, Ky.; one brother, Isai E. Greeno, 218 S. Pickaway St., and a daughter-in-law, Hilda Jeffries Denman, Columbus.

Services will be 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Calvary United Methodist Church where she had been a lifelong member. The Rev. G. H. Niswender and the Rev. Robert Butz will officiate with burial in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Mader Funeral Home beginning 7 p.m. Monday, 4 p.m. Tuesday and at the church after 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Soviets In Hard Challenge To West's Rights On Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — The Soviet Union has confronted the Western Big Three with one of the most serious challenges to West Berlin's flight corridors since the airlift that broke the blockade 20 years ago.

Meanwhile, the West Berlin city government made an 11th hour attempt to negotiate with the East Germans. Mayor Klaus Schuetz's office cabled East Berlin late Sunday asking the Communists if they were "willing to talk" about settlement of the dispute over holding of the West German presidential election in West Berlin Wednesday. There was no immediate reply. The focus of the war of nerves over holding the election in West Berlin shifted Sunday from the surface routes to the air corridors. The Soviet air control officer warned the U.S., British and French representatives at the West Berlin air safety center that Moscow could not guarantee the security of Western planes bringing the 1,603 presidential electors to West Berlin. East Germany has already barred the electors from the surface routes to the Communist-encircled city.

The Western allies, still the occupation powers in West Berlin, rejected the warning and told the Russians orally that they continued to hold the Soviet Union responsible for the safety of all American, British and French flights in the three air corridors over East Germany.

Earlier Sunday, East German soldiers for two hours blocked the east bound lane on the autobahn between Helmstedt, West Germany, and Berlin. It was the second temporary shutdown in as many days of Soviet and East German military maneuvers in the area between Berlin and Helmstedt.

Firemen Rescue Cincinnati Men From Blaze

CINCINNATI (AP) — Firemen hoisted ladders today to rescue a 70-year-old man and a neighbor who had tried to help him from a fire at the older man's home.

The fire was at the home of Allen Campbell. He was on the second floor and his wife called the neighbor, Tom Watson, for help. Watson made it to the second floor and managed to get Campbell to a window from which firemen rescued both men.

Campbell was taken to Jewish Hospital suffering from smoke inhalation.

The fire, believed to have been caused by careless smoking, did an estimated $2,800 damage to the home.

School District Seeks New Funds

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

'Firm Discipline' Hurts Grandparents

DEAR ABBY: I am so hurt. My daughter and her husband have now decided that my two grandsons shall be denied a visit to Grandma's and Grandpa's house until they stop doing this or that.

Our greatest pleasure is a visit from our grandchildren who are 4 and 6 years old.

So now we are told there will be no more visits until Bobby stops sucking his thumb, or Richard comes the first time he's called. Their parents call this 'firm discipline.' I call it, 'unfair to grandparents.'

Please, Abby, tell us if we are off base for feeling the way we do. Or are the parents? And what should we do about it?

HURT GRANDPARENTS
DEAR HURT: It is unfortunate that in their efforts to "discipline" their children your daughter and her husband punish YOU, too. If you have already let them know how you feel and they refuse to substitute another kind of punishment, say nothing. I agree, it's unfair to you, but the choice is theirs.

DEAR ABBY: I heard a man make a reference to "San Quentin quail." We live 25 miles from San Quentin penitentiary and have never seen any kind of quail around that area. Thank you for any information you can give us.

CALIFORNIANS
DEAR CALIFORNIANS: Are you pulling my feathers? "San Quentin quail" is a term (slang) meaning an underage girl.

DEAR ABBY: A year ago I did a foolish thing. I got the girl I was going with pregnant, and when she told me about it I skipped town and left Carlotta to face everything alone. She was 16 and I was 20. Carlotta could have made trouble for me, but she didn't.

I thought it over and came back. Carlotta was still home like nothing had happened. She had the baby and gave it up for adoption, but she wouldn't even come to the door to talk to me. When I tried to get her on the telephone her father told me if I ever showed my face around there again he would kill me.

Abby, I made a terrible mistake. I still love the girl, and I know if she would only see me I could make it up to her. I feel like a heel, but even a heel needs advice. How can I get my girl to see me?

DENNY
DEAR DENNY: She is not your "girl" anymore. Your timing is poor. Give her a break and let her alone.

DEAR ABBY: When I read that letter from the 15-year-old girl who thinks she's a "slave" because her mother makes her help at home, I could have cried. I guess all teen-age girls feel that way. I know I did about 10 years ago.

I only wish someone would have told me what you told her. Unfortunately, my mother spoiled me, and gave in and did the work herself. Now that I am married and have children of my own, I know what Mom went thru, and could kick myself for the way I treated her. Altho I don't get many chances to make it up to her, believe me, I never miss a chance when I get one.

I would love to do it all over again and be able to do everything for her that she did for me.

I just want to say, PLEASE, girls, love your mother. She is the only one you'll ever have, and you won't have her forever. With love to Mom.

SEEK VOLUNTARY PRAYERS IN SCHOOLS—Senate Republican leader Everett Dirksen, R-Ill. (left), and Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, compare notes on their bills to assure the right of voluntary prayers in schools and other public places, at the Capitol in Washington. The U.S. Supreme Court held that prayers cannot be mandatory.

Questions Taxpayers Ask

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column of questions and answers on federal tax matter is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. I just received a bill for taxes I paid last month. What should I do?

A. Write the office which sent you the bill telling them when you made your last payment and where it was sent. Be sure to give your name, address and Social Security Number. It is possible that your payment got separated from the return or notice accompanying it.

To make sure payments are properly credited, always put your Social Security number on your check or money order. It will also be helpful to write on the check what it is for and to enclose any bill or notice you may have received.

Q. If I send in my return now, how long will it take to get my refund?

A. Refund claims filed now can be processed and the check issued in 5-6 weeks. Returns filed in April take longer to process, because of the high volume of returns received at that time.

Any error on the return, such as a mistake in figuring the new tax surcharge or a missing Social Security number or signature, will cause delays. If your refund is delayed, wait at least 10 weeks from the time you filed before writing IRS about it.

Q. I collected state unemployment benefits last year. Do I declare them as income?

A. No, state unemployment benefits are not taxable and do not have to be reported.

Q. I support my grandson.

Can I claim him as a dependent even though he did not live with me?

A. Generally, you can if you provided more than one-half of the child's support, and the other dependency tests are met. The dependency requirements are explained in the 1040 and 1040A tax instructions.

Q. Are scholarships taxable?

A. Scholarships and fellowship grants are tax free within certain limitations. For more details, send a post card to your District Director and ask for Publication 507, "Tax Information on Scholarships and Fellowships."

General tax information for students is contained in Publication 532, "Tax Information for Students and Parents." Both are free.

Q. Do I have to report my company pension as income?

A. "If the company paid the entire cost of the pension, the amounts you received usually will be fully taxable. If you paid part of the cost, only a portion of your pension benefits will be taxed."

If you will recover the total amount of your contributions within three years after you receive the first payment, your pension will not be taxed until you have recovered your cost. If you will not recover the amount of your contributions within the three years, a portion of the pension will be taxable each year. Instructions are contained in the instructions for Schedule B of Form 1040.

Q. Do you have anything that explains depreciation in a small business?

A. Depreciation is covered in our Publication 554, "Depreciation, Investment credit, Amortization, Depletion". It is available, free, at IRS offices.

Major Oil Companies Boost Wholesale Gasoline Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight major oil companies have raised the wholesale price of gasoline by either six or seven-tenths of a cent and many service station operators have decided to pass the price hike on to drivers at a rate of one to three cents a gallon.

An Associated Press survey of six cities shows many dealers who haven't yet increased their price but will soon.

The manager of a Mobil station in New York City said, "Naturally, if prices go up, we'll raise our prices."

In Detroit, the Retail Gasoline Dealers of Michigan, representing 2,000 service stations, said drivers there will pay a cent or two more than the current price of 35.9 cents for regular gas and 39.9 for premium.

A Boston dealer who said he plans to raise prices three cents a gallon added "Business is lousy this time of year and this just makes it lousier."

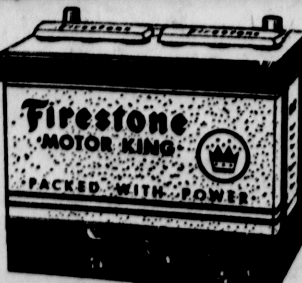

A San Francisco dealer, George Currie, said he'd try to hold the line on prices "but I don't want to start a gas war."

Frank M. Anderson, a Texaco dealer in Atlanta, raised gas prices one cent this week and will add another penny to the total next week, he said. James Bowen, a Sinclair dealer in Decatur, Ga., near Atlanta, said, "I plan to go up one cent."

But drivers near Kansas City, Mo. may escape an increase. The city is in the midst of a price war that has cut prices to as little as 20.9 cents for regular gas.

Texaco was the first company to announce a price rise, when it said Monday that it would charge six-tenths of a cent more per gallon. Two major oil companies that did not announce price changes were Humble and Shell.

Danger Of Collapse

Probably no stronger indictment has ever been made against the Post Office Department than that made by the new postmaster general. Not only is the department in a terrible mess, says Winton Blount, but it is in imminent danger of collapse.

Certainly the specter of a nationwide shutdown of mail service is not a reassuring one. Perhaps mail delivery is one of those necessities which really aren't appreciated until they come to a sudden halt.

But picture for a moment the chaos which would result from no mail delivery for an extended period of time. Businesses would not receive orders, materials or payments for services rendered. Relatives and friends might as well live on another planet if they could no longer correspond with one another.

The lifeblood of much of what happens in modern society would cease to function. Whether Blount really meant the crisis has reached this proportion is beside the point. The postmaster general obviously is appalled by the present state of the postal system.

An early recognition of the seriousness of a patient's condition is vital to the physician who attempts to take corrective action. Blount is to be congratulated on his forthright recognition of the problems he faces.

It should make the diagnosis and treatment he prescribes that much more decisive.

Life Can Be Too Easy

There is a great deal of similarity between the condition of the world today and that which prevailed when the fledgling 13 states declared themselves independent of the mother country.

Without question the future will require many of the same attributes from the population that were demanded from the citizens of two centuries ago. It will require primarily a sound understanding and appreciation of the basic freedoms of society and the initiative and courage to protect them. Through the easier route may be toward government paternalism and forfeited freedoms of thought and action.

It is the duty of each generation of Americans not only to contribute its share to the fulfillment of this nation's destiny, but to prepare the succeeding generation adequately for its role of carrying the promise of freedom beyond the point to which contemporary leaders have brought it.

Many of the younger generation have never known the more lasting pleasures of fulfilling their desires and wants through their own initiative. This necessary ingredient of good citizenship has been denied them by selfish parents who want their children to have "everything" except the industry necessary to propel them through life.

Collegiate Plumbers

From Chicago comes word that an official of a plumbers' union is making arrangements with the city-operated colleges to offer two-year degrees in industrial arts, with a major in plumbing for members of his union.

As the plan now stands, plumbers who have completed their apprenticeship would be eligible to attend night school.

Whatever this move might portend for other trades and crafts, it is obvious the prestige of a sheepskin is exerting a strong influence on manpower in all fields.

Perhaps the Chicago plan is the solution to severe shortages of trained manpower in almost all trades today.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

It isn't how much a brain weighs, it's what you can do with it that counts. Man's brain slightly outweighs that of woman's, but science hasn't been able to prove he's more intelligent—something women have been saying for a long time.

Think you can drink and drive? Well, for your family's sake at least leave the car in the garage on Saturdays. That's the day when most fatal crashes involving alcohol occur.

To get your dime's worth during a three-minute call from a phone booth, talk faster. A slow talker can get only about 400 to 450 words off his chest in that time, but a fast talker can do 600 or more.

Schizophrenia or "split personality" is the most widespread mental disease and occurs around the world in all races and cultures, affecting at least one out of every 100 persons. Researchers who believe it is caused by a chemical imbalance report they have had at least limited success by treating it with massive doses of vitamins.

Quotable notables: "The person who worries kills more people than work is that more people worry than work."—Robert Frost.

Fair warning: The next time your kids turn on the rock 'n' roll too loud, tell them that a scientist recently subjected a guinea pig to 90 hours of 120-decibel "hard rock" music—and the animal ended up hard of hearing. If the guinea pig ear can't take it, can the human ear?

Odd legislation: In the early 1800s, an ordinance introduced in the Philadelphia Common Council seeking to ban bathing from Nov. 1 to March 15 was defeated by only two votes.

Worth remembering: "The beauty of the old-fashioned blacksmith was that when you brought him your horse to be shod, he didn't think of 40 other things that needed to be done to it."

Nature notes: A whale can dive a mile deep and stay submerged for an hour before he has to surface and blow out stale air. The wild goose is as graceful as an airplane in flight, and about as complicated: it has 12,000 muscles, of which 10,000 control the movements of its feathers. The ant is an insect philanthropist. In one of its two stomachs it digests its own food, in the other it stores food it shares with other ants in its nest.

If you're a duffer at golf, make a reservation now for a trip to the moon. On its surface a 150-yard drive would travel half a mile.

It was Knute Rockne who observed, "Most men, when they think they are thinking, are merely rearranging their prejudices."

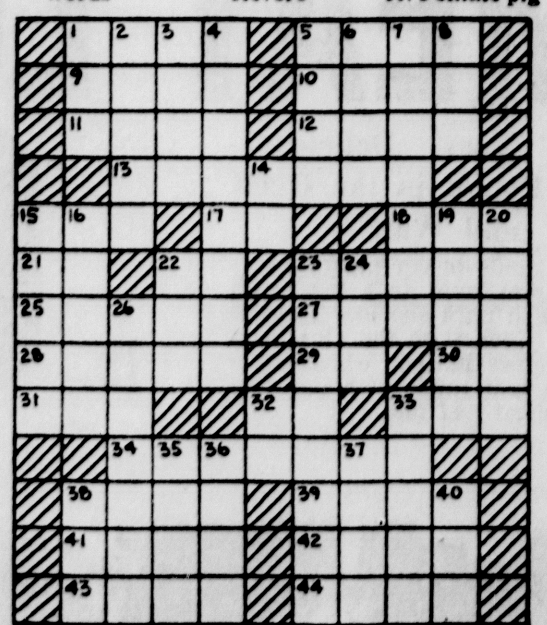

The famous star cluster known as the Pleiades, or Seven Sisters, twinkles through the early evening hours of February 1969. Resembling a small dioper made up of six bright stars, the Pleiades are found in the right shoulder of the constellation Taurus, the Bull. To find the Pleiades, one should look overhead at sunset and further to the southwest later in the evening.

Sarcophagus means "flesh-eater," a name deriving from the corrosive effect of early limestone coffins on bodies interred in them.

Try and Stop Me

WITH HIGH-RISE condominiums popping up all over the country nowadays, you can believe the story of one city youngster challenging another. "I'll bet you're so dumb you don't even know what happened in 1492," with the other answering, "How can I? We live in the pent-house!"

A handsome but bashful young man from the Bible Belt was recently hired by a firm of certified accountants. Shortly thereafter, he reported to the office manager, "I must tell you that some of the young ladies in your employ are tempting me sorely." "Stand firm, young man," the startled manager told him, resisting a smile, "and you will get your reward in Heaven."

A week later the young man was back. "It's that beautiful redhead, sir! She's pursuing me relentlessly. I don't think I can resist her—but if I do, what do you think my reward will be in Heaven?" The office manager informed him, "A bale of hay, you jackass!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Hundreds of thousands of people suffer from nerve deafness which affects their serviceable hearing at work, in the movies and listening to radio and television. Nerve deafness is a very complex condition occasionally found in conjunction with ordinary conductive hearing loss. This is known as mixed deafness.

The remarkable advances in ear surgery have brought welcome hearing to those with otosclerosis and other forms of hearing deficiencies. Any interference with sound through the outer ear canal that affects the vibration of the eardrum, known as a conductive hearing loss. Nerve deafness is a disorder that interferes with the electrical impulses that are carried in the nerve which runs from the hearing mechanism in the inner ear to the hearing center in the brain.

People with conductive hearing loss that cannot be treated with surgery are given a new lease on their "hearing life" with fine hearing aids that are now made by responsible manufacturers.

I am distressed by the unscrupulous sellers of expensive hearing aids who slyly suggest that "now nerve deafness can be helped with a hearing aid." These exploiting salespeople stay just within the law and the restrictions of the better business bureaus because of their false claims. Thousands of people who are least equipped to buy these instruments are trapped by the ads only to find that the seller loses interest once the victim buys the useless instrument.

It is shameful but true that hundreds of thousands of invested dollars and invested hopes are wasted because buyers have not learned the simple rule of reliability of hearing aid buying. Before any purchase is made, speak to your doctor and then to your ear specialist before yielding to the deceptive advertising claims of those who have their own "special and private miracle wonder instrument for nerve deafness."

Only the air we breathe does not have a weight-reducing artificial sweetener. It can be found in every drink, in every canned fruit and in every food adored by dessert-loving people. Saccharin and the cyclamates are believed to present no special dangers unless they are taken in quantities that add up to more than five grams a day. Some cases have been uncovered of mild intestinal disturbances from these sugar replacements. Their use should be considered as a possibility in any unexplained and new symptom.

Actually, I believe that these replacements for nutritious sugars play an insignificant role in sensible dieting. The few calories in sugar do not put the weight on as much as the high caloric foods that are eaten. I am always amused to watch someone gorge himself with a five-thousand calorie meal, topped with a fattening dessert, then satisfy his guilt by dropping a pellet of saccharin into his coffee and behave as if he were leading a monastic life.

The Quarrel Over ROTC

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

President Kingman Brewster of Yale, talking to the alumni of his university, gave a very logical explanation of the reasons for withdrawing academic credit for "rotzy," as the Reserve Officers Training Corps study program on the campus is known. But he left a number of people thinking about old J. P. Morgan's remark that there were always two explanations for a thing, the good explanation and the real explanation.

The good explanation, as President Brewster set it forth, is that the Yale faculty found itself caught in a period of crisis with its logic down. With the black power contingent in the colleges clamoring for the right of veto over faculty control of the content of studies that touch on Negro history, the anomaly of permitting an outside interest — i.e., the Department of Defense — to provide the professors and to dictate the substance of R.O.T.C. courses seemed all too glaring. Either the faculty controls things or it doesn't. Then, too, the R.O.T.C. courses are undeniably "vocational." This, in the Ivy League, which is committed to the "liberating" non-vocational theory of education, presents another anomaly, so that Yale faculty's decision to refuse credit for R.O.T.C. classroom hours was doubly grounded in a drive for logical consistency.

So the president of Yale explained things, and there is no reason to doubt that this is the way it seems to him. But does he actually know the minds of his own faculty? If it was only logical consistency that bothered the faculty members, why did no one perceive the need to get rid of academic credits for R.O.T.C. before the student rebellion against the DRAFT and the Vietnamese War? After all, they had R.O.T.C. in college forty-five years ago, when — if the memory of some of my friends who took a military "major" is to be trusted — it was a "gut" that provided an easy path to a diploma.

Are we to think that faculty members have been too stupid for almost a full half-century to see the logical inconsistency in permitting the military to run its own show on campus despite the dogma of "faculty control"? No, the only plausible real explanation for the recent Yale decision is that the students have compelled faculty interest in something that never interested them before.

Whether there ever should have been an R.O.T.C. is, as they say, a good question. Presumably the military is able to replenish its supply of second lieutenants through the Officers Candidate School program. Maybe it has never needed R.O.T.C. But what bothers me at this particular moment in history about the "get-rid-of-the-military" furor is the atmosphere of the times. I lived through the Thirties, and, like other young people then, I shared the notion that wars could be successfully boycotted. That was the period in which young Oxford students were taking an oath never to be seduced into taking up arms for King and country.

My good friend Frank Hammen, who learned to rue his past, was busy exposing the "merchants of death" — i.e., the duPonts and others who had made money by selling munitions for World War I. Another friend, Walter Millis, was engaged in spreading the theory that the U.S. went to war in 1917 to save the "Morgan loans." We all clapped when Harry Elmer Barnes and Sidney Fay "proved" that the atrocities in Belgium were fictions of Allied propaganda. (This could have been true, but it still does not prove that a nation should not stand ready to defend its interests.) And we thought highly of the Nye Committee's rather McCarthyite pursuit of the munitions makers and the passage of the neutrality act, which pledged us to refuse arms to belligerents in other countries.

None of this was lost on a man named Adolf Hitler. He knew — or thought he knew — that the England of pacifistic Laborites such as Ramsay MacDonald and George Lansbury, and equally "turn-the-other-cheek" Conservatives such as Stanley Baldwin, was a soft touch. He knew — or thought he knew — that the American of the Nye Committee and the neutrality legislation was a disintegrating country, rather like the Austro-Hungarian empire of the Hapsburgs. So Hitler had no fear of starting out to eat the world leaf by leaf, like an artichoke. The end was the worst war in history.

Does this always follow when the top-dog countries suddenly decide to go pacifist? It's an uncomfortable thing to think about. But it is something that our political science faculties should be considering in some of the time now devoted to the campus to attacking R.O.T.C.

NEW YORK (AP) — "PBL," the National Educational Network's weekly actuality program, presented a 90-minute program Sunday night designed to show "the day-by-day life of a cop on the beat."

The program was filmed with Kansas City policemen for what must have been considerably more than a day. They were shown handling situations that would have provided enough plots for a year of "Dragnet."

The widely publicized removal from the sound track of obscenities had to do with a tussle between the police and a violent 16-year-old picked up for car stealing. Even with the missing words, the provocation was evident and the police seemed forced to handle him roughly.

The program, although it did show much of the tough side of police work, was not an entirely sympathetic picture. From time to time it seemed the officers were putting a bit more muscle than necessary in their work. But the enormous variety of their responsibilities was impressive.

They were shown separating battling husbands and wives; comforting a lost child; pouring a drunk into a paddy wagon; preventing a hold-up; getting an ambulance for a sick, old woman; umpiring a battle between a cab driver and his fare.

The program helped the viewer appreciate policemen, but it had one great drawback—most of us would like to have known how the cases turned out.

ABC plans a massive realignment of its schedule next September—11 new shows and one arrival from another network.

Among the programs to be dropped to make room for new shows are "Peyton Place," "Big Valley," "Judd for the Defense," "N.Y.P.D.," "Guns of Will Sonnett," "That's Life," "The Outcasts," "The Avengers," "What's It All About, World?" and the King Sisters show that hasn't even started yet.

New shows planned include two 45-minute programs back-to-back—one a musical and the other an action series. Robert Young returns in a series about a general practitioner. Lana Turner and George Hamilton will co-star. An old movie, "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" will be turned into a comedy series.

NBC and ABC provided live coverage of the return of President Nixon to Washington and the ceremonies at the airport. CBS went ahead with its scheduled broadcast of "Mission: Impossible."

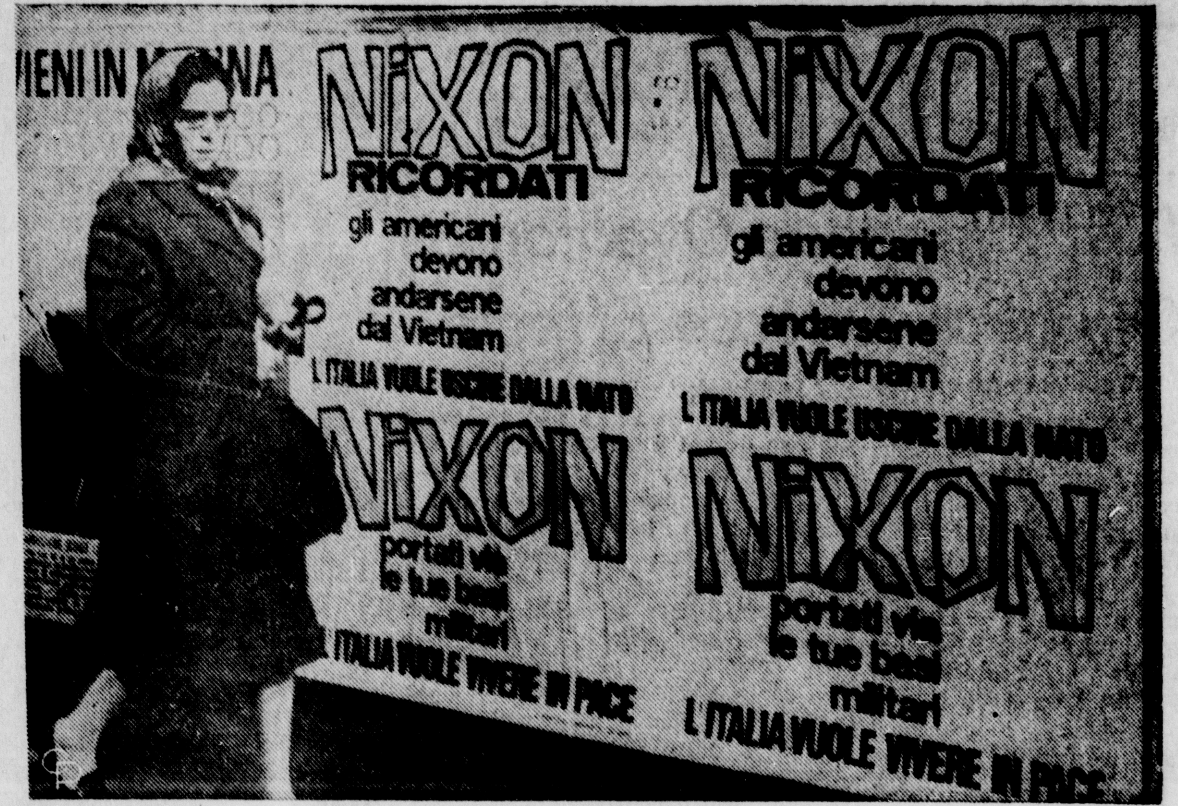

After the ceremonies, which lasted about 30 minutes. NBC got a late start on its special, a documentary on challenges to contemporary religion. ABC picked up its movie, "The Agony and the Ecstasy," where it had been interrupted.

Ohio Weekend Traffic Toll Hits 20; Worst Of Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio's weekend traffic toll began slowly, then snowballed into the most tragic 54 hours of the year on the highways.

No fatalities were reported Friday night after the period began at 6 p.m., but at least nine deaths Saturday and 11 Sunday—including three double-fatality accidents—swelled the final total to 20.

The deaths:

Saturday
Paul McKenzie, 51, Rt. 1 Kingston, Pickaway County, killed when his car collided with another car on a Pickaway County road 13 miles southeast of Circleville.

Phyllis Cain, 41, Rt. 2, Williamsport, Pickaway County killed when her car left a road south of Williamsport and struck a utility pole.

Linda Akers, 19, Albany, Athens County, killed when the car in which she was a passenger plunged off Ohio 682 and rolled over on its top near Chancery, north of Athens.

Frederick W. Shepherd Jr., Uniontown, Stark County, killed when he was struck by a car while walking along Ohio 8 just north of the Stark County line in Summit County.

George D. Dressler, 24, killed when his car ran off a Mus-kingdom County road just east of Ohio 93.

Donald E. Hansell, 31, Miamisburg, killed when his pickup truck went out of control and crashed into a bridge on River-view Road in Miamisburg.

C. Leo Mushnuel, 104, Columbus, died of injuries received when he was hit by a car while walking near his residence.

Charles Shadix, 30, Toledo, killed in a two-car crash on Interstate 280 near Bowling Green. The Highway Patrol said Shadix's car collided head-on with an auto driven by Wilma Shackler of Huron on the wrong side of the interstate highway.

Gerald Michael Huston, 19, Mount Healthy, near Cincinnati, was killed when his car ran off Ohio 4 and struck a tree.

Sunday
Jimmy C. Rogers, 19, Ravenna, the driver, and his passenger, Thomas G. Williams, 21, Ravenna, killed in a one-car accident on Ohio 59 in Ravenna in Portage County.

George W. Spencer, 37,

Youngstown, killed when his car left the road and hit a tree on Ohio 422 one mile west of the Trumbull County line in Portage County.

Vernon Ray Benschoter, 21, Wayne, the driver, and his passenger, William J. Stein, 18, rural Portage County, killed in a one-car accident on Ohio 199 about one mile north of Ohio 381 in Wood County.

Robert Hoops, 21, Shawnee, killed in a one-car accident on Ohio 93 seven miles south of New Lexington in Perry County.

Moses Bell Jr., 22, Warren, and his passenger, Lilly Ann Russell, 19, Warren, were killed in a one-car accident in Warren.

Georgene Rowland, 27, Warren, killed in a one-car accident in Warren.

Michael J. Buck, 18, Findlay, died of injuries received Saturday in a one-car accident in Findlay.

Howard Dean, 51, Warren, killed in a head-on crash of two cars on Ohio 82 about three miles east of Warren.

Ohio Solons To Receive Major Bills

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two administration bills, one to create an Ohio State Planning Office and another to establish a Department of Public Safety, are expected to be introduced in the Ohio Senate early this week.

Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray said he will introduce the planning office proposal when it is ready, possibly tonight.

John McElroy, chief aide to Gov. James A. Rhodes, planned to read the public safety bill over the weekend before it is sent to the Senate, probably on Tuesday.

Meanwhile, a bill going before the Senate tonight would make parents responsible up to $2,000 for any assault their child should make on another person.

Another bill which would increase from $800 to $2,000 the amount of property damage a parent would be responsible for passed 29-1 last Wednesday.

The Senate Judiciary Committee will consider tonight a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to abolish the death penalty.

The House is expected to have a light session tonight.

"A CLOTHES DRYER THAT DOES MY IRONING? RIDICULOUS!"

Show us a lady who doubts a modern Gas dryer can do her ironing, and we'll show you a lady who wonders why everyone's so excited about the new Permanent Press clothing.

Oh, she's tried Permanent Press. She's washed them, hung them out to dry—and gotten clothesline creases, clothespin puckers and droopy knees that still need plenty of hand ironing.

Pity. Somebody should tell her that the wonderful new Permanent Press clothing is made to be dried in an automatic dryer. Most Permanent Press labels say the garments absolutely must have gentle tumble-action to pop out the wrinkles and snap back the creases.

She should know that a Gas dryer can do most of her ironing for her. Slacks, shirts, dresses, children's clothes, sheets, pillowcases, stretch clothes, knits and dozens of other Permanent Press miracles are at her store just waiting for her to see the light. Soon she'll be able to buy everything washable in Permanent Press and retire her iron to the attic to keep the washboard company.

And somebody should let her know that penny-a-load gas dryers dry everything—Permanent Press or not—for about one-fifth what it costs to run an electric dryer. Poor lady. Somebody just has to tell her. Will you do it? Please?

Fast Diagnosis Overcomes Crippling Disease Effects

By MARION SINES

When a serious epidemic or mishap occurs in other parts of the country, most people feel compassion for those who are suffering but have the feeling that it won't happen here.

But here is anywhere, and it can happen at any time. Even when a recent happening that affected area people is discussed, most persons shrug it off and say that it could have been much worse.

This however is not the feelings of those closely associated with an unfortunate occurrence. The Easter Seal Society on Tuesday and Thursday will be mailing sheets of Easter Seals for money to help aid crippled children and adults as well as allocate a large amount of the receipts in research to prevent diseases which cause crippling in many forms.

One case of such a disease happened in Circleville in August of 1953 when Mrs. Joseph (Mary Louise) Rooney was stricken with polio. This was here and now, and most persons in the community were greatly concerned.

Mrs. Rooney said that in the beginning of her illness she believed she had the flu because the pain was all over her body and not confined to her legs particularly. Upon consulting Dr. Edwin Shane, the family physician, who diagnosed her illness as polio, she was advised to enter Children's Hospital in Columbus. However upon arrival there, she was referred to University Hospital as they no longer accepted adult cases. Many problems of polio had been solved at that time, but prevention had not been accomplished.

The immediate treatment given Mrs. Rooney was medication for pain, hot packs and therapy. For the first two weeks, she was not permitted any visitors except her husband and he could only come to the door of her room. Later she was taken in a wheelchair to the lobby where she could be with the couple's two sons, Patrick, who was 9 and Joseph Jr., 11. The boys had been taken to stay with their maternal grandmother in Columbus and given gamma globulin as a precautionary measure. It never was determined how Mrs. Rooney contracted the disease.

The visits with her family spurred Mrs. Rooney to work hard at the therapy to speed her return home. Her greatest concern during her illness was for the boys. Most of the conversations with her husband on his early visits were about preventing infection for him as well as the boys.

Returning home was a very happy occasion for Mrs. Rooney. The sight of her home and family together again will remain as one of her happiest moments.

Then came the long period of tedious and painful therapy. She could not just take things easy and recover but had to work hard every day to accomplish that end. It meant keeping her home in order and preparing meals with great effort in spite of many small disasters. She said that washing dishes was a great challenge because many times a dish would just fall from her hands no matter how hard she tried to hold it.

She states that without the early diagnosis of Dr. Shane and the encouragement and therapy treatments given by her husband after she returned home that she would never have completely recovered.

Recover she did, reared her boys and went to work outside her home again. There is no evidence of her ever having had polio, but the family will never forget that anxiety and the work for Mrs. Rooney to be well again.

While Mrs. Rooney's story has a happy ending many people are not so fortunate. Dedicated men and women throughout the world are working to seek cures and prevention for the causes of crippling diseases. Polio is fast joining the ranks of conquered illnesses, however there are many more, while not as dramatic, cause much pain and often disability.

Circleville BPW Club Holds Annual Guest Night

The Circleville Business and Professional Women's Club guest session on Thursday evening marked the terminal of International Week and the thirteenth birthday of the Foundation. The Foundation is the research and educational arm of the membership which reaches other employed women.

The event was held at the High Street School with the world affairs committee, Mrs. Alfred Gabriel, chairman; Mrs. Leland Dunkel and Mrs. Earl Smith, in charge of arrangements.

A cooperative dinner began the evening's activities with foods featuring an international flair.

James H. Leckrone, assistant to director, State Dept. of Finance was the guest speaker. He elaborated on variations in tax burdens, financial needs and problems as related to education, welfare and labor.

Illustrated narrations of their native land were given by Anne Fissell from Scotland, Maisie Lanman from Ireland, Connie Howell and Joan Baughman from England, Ruth Tammany from Hungary and Irene Apostolakis from Greece. Other guests were Pearl Defenbaugh, Peggy Dean and Diana DeVaughn.

Leora Sayre, club president, conducted the business portion of the meeting. The following invitations and meetings were reviewed "You and The Law" conference March 8-9 at Sheraton Columbus Motor Hotel; Defensive Driving Course, March 9, 1 p.m. Good Shepherd Methodist Church, Circleville; "The Arts Speak to Me", the March 13 meeting of Delaware Club at Memorial Union of Ohio Wesleyan University; the March 23 Spring Conference of District 10 also at Ohio Wesleyan; The Antique Show by Zanesville Club, March 14-16; and the Annual Spring Breakfast by Chillicothe Club, April 13 at Valley House.

The representative to Girls State will be selected by the educational scholarship committee. Appointed to the nominating committee were Nancy Lu Conrad, Clarissa Talbut and Mary K. Kennedy, the clubs three past district directors.

JoAnn Brink, safety chairman, managed the presentation of safety slogans which is a part of each session. The prize was awarded to Mary Wolfe for "Safety Doesn't Happen By Accident."

Rita Eldridge, personal development chairman, announced she had received a communication from the district director concerning Marjorie Wolford's nomination by the Club for this year's Young Career Woman contest. Selection of the district winner will be a special inclusion at the March 23 Spring Meeting.

The door prize for guests, a red, white, and blue floral arrangement, was won by Mrs. Tammany.

House Beauty Shop Does Well, Shows Good Profit

WASHINGTON (AP) — While most federal departments want more and more money every year, at least one arm of government is operating in the black—the House Beauty Shop.

The shop was a hot item about 14 months ago when a running feud developed between members and the shop's operator who paid no rent, got free towels and utilities and was allowed to pocket everything she made.

Mrs. Abel Solomon, suddenly pulled out her equipment and supplies in December 1967 when her desire to pick her own successor and sell the goodwill she built up over 30 years was opposed.

It took only about a week before the House named a three-woman committee, kicked in $15,000 from the contingency fund and had a shop of its own in gear.

"We've got to have a beauty shop. Without it there would be a revolution," said Speaker John W. McCormack.

Before Congress quit last year, the operation returned $7,500 of the initial investment.

The same three members—Chairman Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., and Reps. Edith Green, D-Ore., and Catherine May, R-Wash.—were named to the special committee in this Congress.

They now have a new shop with new equipment in the basement of the Cannon Office Building. It was opened late last year.

"It is strictly self supporting," Mrs. May said. "We'll be paying back money on an annual basis. We can't say how much it will be each year but it will be a plus instead of a subsidy like it was in the past."

Anyone can be served at the facilities but most customers are women members and congressional secretaries.

There is a salaried manager and the employees work on a percentage arrangement.

IRS Agents Are Found Not Guilty

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The two federal agents charged by Columbus police with improper conduct were found innocent Saturday in U.S. District Court.

They also indicated they will continue the probe of alleged gambling payoffs here.

Justice Department attorney Edward T. Joyce was charged with intoxication and Internal Revenue Service agent Guy I. Wetherell with intoxication and abusive language following their arrest in front of a lounge last July 26.

They claimed the arrests amounted to harassment. The agents had said several high city and police officials were being investigated for tax evasion in connection with the alleged payoffs.

After their acquittal Saturday, the agents did not comment on the probe but said they would return here soon.

Another IRS agent arrested at the same time was found innocent of an intoxication charge Feb. 22.

Coast Guard To Discontinue Ship Following

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) —The Coast Guard announced today that it no longer will operate its merchant ship following system on the Great Lakes.

The system was designed to reduce the length of time a ship could be in danger and no one was aware of it because of a lack of communications.

If a participating vessel failed to check in within four hours of its announced time, the Coast Guard launched a communications search for the ship. If this failed the Coast Guard started a search with ships and aircraft.

In announcing discontinuance of the system, Rear Adm. W. F. Rea III, commander of the 9th Coast Guard District, said it was found that the costs of operating it "have far outweighed the benefits received either by the Coast Guard or the Great Lakes maritime industry."

Goodwill Helps Handicapped To Retain Dignity

WORKING — Two handicapped persons work in the upholstery department of a Cleveland Goodwill industries shop.

By FLORENCE MICHELSON

Discarded clothing and unwanted household items today are giving self-respect, independence and pay checks to more than 80,000 handicapped workers.

"Unemployable," so labeled because of crippled limbs, chronic ailments, emotional instability, visual, speech and hearing defects, gain stature as working, tax-paying members of society. They clean and repair articles received in Goodwill bags from an estimated 20 million homes in 10,000 communities last year. The renewed merchandise is sold cheaply at Goodwill stores.

The first "good will" bag was filled in 1902 during a nationwide depression. This burlap bag was carried across the shoulders of Dr. Edgar James Helms, Methodist minister of Morgan Chapel in Botoon's South End where much poverty existed.

Dr. Helms' driving desire had been to "help the helpless to help themselves." And during the depression, "whole men" men capable and educated, often found it almost impossible to earn a living.

The people in Boston's South End were destitute, and Dr. Helms was desperate. He walked from door to door in Boston's more affluent neighborhoods. He received generous contributions of food and funds as well as discards.

Other members of Morgan

Chapel joined in their minister's drive. Large bags which once held coffee beans were soon filled with usable clothing and household items. These were lugged aboard street-cars until conductors objected. Then a horse and wagon were hired to cart the bulging bags.

How to distribute the clothing and other needed items worried Dr. Helms. He feared to make paupers of his people. He wanted them to retain their self-respect.

Dr. Helms thought. He prayed. Finally he had an inspiration, a plan.

These people should earn what they needed. They would be paid wages for cleaning, repairing, renovating the articles received. Later they could purchase the merchandise at low cost.

On the workshop walls was this motto: "Never too poor to pray; never too weak to win."

The project proved successful. Cities across America took up the idea. Today there are 179 Goodwill Industries and branch workshops in this country. Eleven foreign nations have adapted the methods of Goodwill Industries of America, Inc., in 22 workshops.

The name of Dr. Helms' project was originally, "Co-operative Industrial Relief Work." However, the Brooklyn Missionary Society which had adopted the Morgan Memorial constitution thought the name unwieldy. When someone there

Police Probe Murder-Suicide

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police continued their investigation today of an apparent weekend murder-suicide which took the lives of a Cincinnati school counselor and a Cleveland man.

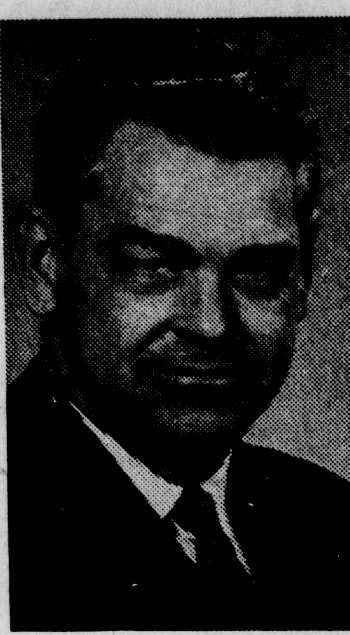

The victims were Robert D. Bell, 39, counselor at Heindol Junior High School, and John Harris, 24, Cleveland.

Police said Bell shot Harris in the chest following an argument in Bell's suburban Clifton apartment, then turned the gun on himself.

overheard, "Why, this is surely good will," the present name "Goodwill Industries" was suggested.

A total of more than 2,150,000 in the United States have physical or mental disabilities, and need vocational rehabilitation.

Goodwill Industries co-operates with federal and state rehabilitation agencies. The number of handicapped placed in industry is constantly increasing. Two years ago the number was 66,000, last year 80,000.

4 Summoned From Pueblo

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Four intelligence specialists were among US Pueblo crewmen summoned to tell a Navy court of inquiry today about their conduct during North Korean imprisonment.

The four were communications technicians on the intelligence ship when it was captured by the North Koreans last year.

The Navy said it will conclude its questioning of the crew Wednesday or early Thursday and the Pueblo's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, will have an opportunity to call witnesses.

The court began an investigation six weeks ago of the capture of the ship and the crew's 11-month imprisonment.

Bucher has said he will make a final statement before the court, and his civilian attorney, E. Miles Harvey, was expected to call some witnesses on Bucher's behalf.

Kenner Toy Co. Struck By Workers

Ike Showing Some Progress Against Illness

WASHINGTON (AP) — The right medicine and a tough constitution seem to be effectively combating the pneumonia that attacked former President Dwight D. Eisenhower during his recovery from major surgery.

But "he's still quite weak," a high-ranking Walter Reed Army Hospital spokesman said. "He's got to eat and get some strength back."

And his doctors reported that "the area of pneumonia in the right lung base is markedly diminished."

He ate a solid, if soft, meal Sunday—his first after nearly two weeks of liquid nourishment.

Men Who Fly Space Mission

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Here are the men who will fly the Apollo 9 space missions, last voyage before the historic landing of U.S. astronauts on the moon:

Spacecraft commander: James A. McDivitt, 39-year-old Air Force colonel. A veteran of 145 combat missions during the Korean War, he was named an astronaut in 1962 and commanded the four-day flight of Gemini 4 in 1965.

Command module pilot: David R. Scott, 37, Air Force colonel. One of the third group of astronauts named in 1963, he rode the Gemini 8 spacecraft which performed the first successful docking of vehicles in space.

Lunar module pilot: Russell L. Schweickart, 34, a civilian on his first space flight.

Tom Shaw Wins Doral Open Golf

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
MIAMI (AP)—The Doral Open was just another tournament but it produced golf's newest personality boy—28-year-old Tom Shaw.

The exuberant sun-bleached blond from Golf, Ill., chalked up his first tour victory Sunday through a combination of gameness and superb play that eluded Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and the other big names lured by the $30,000 first prize on the first stop on the rich Florida circuit.

Shaw's talent showed on the front nine of the par 72 Doral Country Club course when he fired six birdies for a six-under par 30. He showed his cool when he failed to let a triple bogey on the 10th hole rattle him out of the lead.

"I don't believe it, but I love it," Shaw quipped after finishing with a 70 despite a 40 on the back nine for a 72-hole total of 276, 12 strokes under par over the 7,028-yard, sun-washed layout.

Shaw shared the lead all the way. Dan Sikes, a leader after the first 36 holes, slipped to a 278 for the $10,650 third prize.

Nicklaus, Shaw's playing partner, wound up in a tie for fourth at 279 after charging into second place at the end of 54 holes, and Palmer finished in a tie for 10th.

Shaw's six-year pro career was interrupted in 1966 when he broke his back in an automobile accident at San Francisco. He wore a brace for three months and returned to the circuit—"too soon," he said.

His game was bothered by muscles which hadn't healed and he left the tour to take an assistant's job in Golf, Ill. He resumed competition in 1968 and came in sixth at Philadelphia, Cleveland and Pensacola for his best finishes.

Shaw's $30,000 first prize is more than twice his earnings on the tour last year.

Shaw has an omen now, in the form of an orange shirt.

"My wife Joy gave it to me for Christmas," he said. "I wore it in the third round and washed it out for the final." "Our fourth wedding anniversary is on March 10, and I guess this is a pretty fine present," he said of his first victory.

"I've never been so happy."

Miami Wins MAC Crown; Beats Bowling Green Falcons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Steve Mix clinched the Mid-American Conference individual scoring record Saturday night and combined with John Rudley to provide two-thirds of Toledo's points. But Miami still won the game—and with it the MAC crown.

The Redskins edged Toledo 70-65 and also earned a trip to the NCAA Midwest Regionals.

Ohio University, just one-half game behind Miami, beat Bowling Green 95-88 in overtime earlier in the day. Had Miami lost, the teams would have fought it out Tuesday for the NCAA berth.

Elsewhere, the Ohio Conference tournament finals Tuesday will pit Baldwin-Wallace against Wittenberg—the OC co-leaders at the end of the regular season. B-W shaded Oberlin 65-63 in the Northern Division finals and Wittenberg downed Capital 78-67 in the Southern Division.

Ohio State limped through an 85-72 drubbing by Michigan State, Kent trounced Akron 85-66 and Dayton edged DePaul 63-57. The nation's No. 1 small college team, Ashland, played its usual defensive game and walloped Hillsdale of Michigan 69-39.

B-W came from behind in the second half then staved off an Oberlin rally to take the Northern Division laurels. B-W and Wittenberg will decide the Ohio Conference tournament championship Tuesday night at Denison.

Dave Sorenson hit a hot 31 points for Ohio State but got little support as the Bucks fell to Michigan State. The loss erased the Buckeyes' faint hopes of a Big Ten tie with Purdue and dropped them into a second-place tie with Michigan and Illinois. Ohio plays its last conference game Tuesday when it hosts Celler-dwelling Indiana.

Mix put away 25 points for a season total of 578 — good for the MAC individual title and for a Toledo single season scoring record. Rudley added 17. But Miami's balanced scoring at attack led the Redskins to victory.

Ohio U. won its first victory over Bowling Green in the last seven outings between the two teams. John Canine led the Bobcats with 28 points, followed by Gerald McKee with 17. McKee, the all time scoring leader at Ohio, ended his college career with a total of 1,270 points.

Ohio outscored Bowling Green 17-10 in the overtime.

UCLA Is Back In NCAA Tourney

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

To no one's surprise, UCLA's defending college basketball champions are officially back at their appointed stand in the upcoming NCAA Tournament.

The unbeaten Bruins had almost as much trouble nailing a spot in the postseason classic as did 10-time loser St. Joseph's of Philadelphia.

The top-ranked Bruins and unranked St. Joseph's were among five teams to gain automatic NCAA berths last Saturday by capturing conference titles.

Fifth-ranked Davidson breezed past East Carolina 102-75, completing a three-game blitz in the Southern Conference playoffs. No. 9 Purdue wrapped up its first Big Ten championship in 29 years with a 97-85 triumph over Iowa and Miami, Ohio, shaded Toledo 70-65 to take the Mid-American Conference prize.

But UCLA trailed California by as many as 12 points in the second half before rallying to repulse the Bears 84-77 in overtime for its sixth Pacific 8 crown in seven years.

St. Joseph's, 15-10 going into the Middle Atlantic Conference tourney, trimmed Bucknell 83-67 in the semifinals and then upended Temple 68-67 on John Connolly's basket with one second to play in overtime. The Hawks' coup earned them a spot in the nationals swelling the tourney field to 18 teams.

Seven berths, reserved for conference winners, still are up for grabs. And, after a series of upsets last weekend, tie-breaking playoffs either were set or all but assured in most of those races.

Second-ranked North Carolina, No. 6 Kentucky, No. 7 St. John's, No. 8 South Carolina, No. 11 Louisville, No. 13 Kansas, No. 14 Ohio State, No. 17 Tennessee and No. 19 Tulsa all were knocked off.

Duke stunned North Carolina 87-81 behind Steve Vandenberg's 33 points and North Carolina State ambushed South Carolina 67-64 on Dick Braucher's three-point play with three seconds to play. All four teams will be battling for an NCAA spot in the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament.

Kentucky bowed to Vanderbilt 95-82 despite Dan Issel's 41-point spree, but the Wildcats clinched at least a tie for the Southeastern Conference title when Auburn knocked off second place Tennessee 71-60.

Notre Dame, paced by Austin Carr's 26 points, topped St. John's 71-67 in an overtime struggle between NCAA at-large entries.

Drake clobbered Louisville 101-67 and tied the Cardinals for the Missouri Valley Conference lead. Tulsa, beaten by North Texas State 89-84, remained one game off the pace. All three contenders have one league game remaining.

Colorado beat Kansas 75-67, tying the Jayhawks for first place in the Big Eight Conference. Kansas meets Kansas State and the Buffaloes take on Missouri in conference finales Saturday.

Wyoming topped Brigham Young 79-69, deadlocking the Cougars for the Western Athletic Conference crown and setting up a Wednesday night playoff at Phoenix, Ariz., for the NCAA berth.

Fourth-ranked Santa Clara, which whipped Loyola of Los Angeles 89-66, has all but nailed the West Coast Athletic Conference championship and Murray, an 89-79 victor over Western Kentucky, can do no worse than tie for the Ohio Valley Conference title.

Soph Curtis Rowe scored 21 points—four more than All-America teammate Lew Alcindor—as UCLA subdued California for its 40th straight victory, including 24 this season. Jackie Ridgely hit for 28 to pace the Bears, who led 59-47 after seven minutes in the second half.

Dave Pfahler, whose jump shot sent the St. Joseph's-Temple game into overtime, led the Hawks' attack with 20 points. Mike Maloy put in 25 points and snared 21 rebounds as Davidson romped to its third Southern Conference Tournament title in four years. Rick Mount fired 43 points to key Purdue's Big Ten-clinching victory. Michigan State upset Ohio State 85-72. Princeton, first unbeaten Ivy League champion in 18 years, capped a run of 14 conference victories by defeating Cornell 74-64, with Ivy scoring champ Jeff Petrie hitting for 20 points.

National Invitation Tournament entry Boston College topped Holy Cross 80-74 while West Texas State and St. Peter's, N.J., enhanced their chances for NIT bids with convincing victories. West Texas beat NCAA-bound Colorado State 74-66 and the Peacocks riddled Utah State 95-77.

Louisiana State's Pete Maravich, the nation's top scorer, poured in 49 points in a 78-76 loss to Mississippi and Niagara's Calvin Murphy, No. 2 in the point parade, canned 39 as the Purple Eagles cuffed Fairfield 99-75.

Mustangs Garner Tourney Honors, Set For District

Westfall edged Logan Elm, 66-65, Saturday in a thrilling come from behind victory to capture the lower bracket championship of the Teays Valley Sectional and a berth in the district tournament Wednesday.

Westfall never led in the game until there were only three minutes remaining in the fourth quarter.

Greg Bigam, the game's leading scorer and the outstanding player in Westfall's fine team effort, notched the winning point, a foul shot with just 13 seconds to go in the game.

Bob Barnes had tied the game with 51 seconds to play on a foul shot. Logan Elm had the last shot at the bucket, a 20-foot shot from the corner by Danny Fausnaugh, but the ball bounced off the rim as the buzzer sounded.

BIGAM made 60 per cent of the shots he took from the field, connecting on nine of 15 attempts, and missed only once in eight trips to the charity stripe, for a total of 25 markers.

Bigam also led his team with 12 rebounds, although he played the entire second half with four personal fouls. The 6-foot-11 junior forward picked up his fourth personal with 3:16 showing on the clock in the second period.

Senior guard Gene Carfrey turned in a fine effort for the winners, making six of 16 shots from the field and eight of nine from the charity stripe for a total of 20 points.

Tony Lightle, the Mustangs' 3-year veteran center, scored seven points and pulled down nine missed shots, as well as turning in a good defensive effort on Rovee Woolever, Logan Elm's 6-foot-9 center.

Bill Blair scored six points for Westfall before fouling out with 1:52 to play in the third quarter and Bob Barnes notched eight.

Ed Cornwell and Bob Oesterle, the other two Mustangs to play, were both scoreless.

FOR Logan Elm, Dan Fausnaugh was the leading scorer. He fired away at the basket 18 times, making eight field goals. At the foul line he had a perfect 4-for-4 effort for a 20-point total.

Royce Woolever scored 15 points, nine of them in the first quarter when he connected on four of five shots from the field and made his only chance at the charity stripe. Woolever had 13 rebounds.

Dennis Karshner scored 14 points and pulled down 12 rebounds for the Braves. Woolever and Karshner are the only two seniors on the Logan Elm squad, but constitute all the height for the Braves. Karshner is 6 feet 3 inches tall.

Dan Ankrum scored 11 points for the Braves. D. J. Humphrey three and Mark Knece, a sophomore, two. Dale Hartley was the only other Logan Elm player to see action in the tilt.

The statistics in the game were just as close as the score.

Both teams made 24 field goals. Logan Elm shot 55 times and Westfall 58 times from the field.

WESTFALL had two more opportunities at the foul line, making 18 of 25. Logan Elm made 17 of 23 charity tosses.

In the rebounding department, Westfall held a slight 54-52 edge. The Mustangs had 20 turnovers and Logan Elm had 19.

Logan Elm started the game with a wild scoring flurry and at one time in the first quarter led, 20-5. The Braves made 11 of 16 shots from the field in the first quarter, a 69 per cent scoring average.

But they couldn't keep up the torrid pace. At the end of the first eight minutes of play, the score was 25-14.

The two teams battled on even terms in the second quarter and an 11 point margin still separated them at halftime when the score was 41-30.

Both teams were in foul trouble in the first half. Blair was charged with three personal fouls and Bigam was charged with four before the second quarter came to an end.

WOOLEVER and Karshner both picked up their third personal early in the second quarter.

Westfall had used its man to man defense throughout the first half, but when the Mustangs came back on the floor after the intermission, Coach Paul Hoskins went into a zone defense to protect his foul-plagued squad.

Logan Elm stuck with its zone during the entire game.

In the third period, the Mustangs slowly began to narrow the margin separating the two teams until with just two seconds to play in the period, Lightle sank a field goal that brought them within one point, 51-50.

In the fourth quarter, Bigam deadlocked the score at 53-53 a minute and a half after the period began.

Then Logan Elm reeled off eight straight points for a 61-53 lead with 4:59 to go in the game.

THE next 10 points were scored by Westfall, and with three minutes to play, Carfrey put the Mustangs ahead for the first time in the game, 63-61.

Humphrey deadlocked the score again at 63-63 with 2:42 showing on the clock. The Mustangs went ahead 64-63 on a foul shot by Carfrey.

With 1:07 showing on the clock, Fausnaugh canned both ends of the one and one to put the Braves ahead for the last time, 65-64.

The final two points for the winners came at the foul line. Barnes was fouled in the act of shooting with 51 seconds to play. He made his first shot but missed his second, and the ball was rebounded by Woolever.

The Braves held on to the ball until 26 seconds was left. At that time they called time out to set up a final play. The Braves called time out again with 21 seconds to play.

With 13 to go in the game, Bigam knocked the ball from Ankrum, and as both players scrambled for possession, the referee blew his whistle, charging a personal foul against the Logan Elm player.

BIGAM made his first shot but missed his second. The Braves got the rebound and immediately called time out to set up the final play. Their desperation attempt just before the buzzer missed its mark, and the Westfall players and fans went wild.

It is the third time in the four tournament meetings between the teams that Westfall has won. It is the second sectional co-championship for the Mustangs.

Westfall will now play River Valley at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Ohio State Fairgrounds Coliseum. The Mustangs will carry a 14-4 record into the district tournament.

Logan Elm bows out of the tournament with an 11-8 record.

Ed Cornwell and Bob Oesterle, the other two Mustangs to play, were both scoreless.

FOR Logan Elm, Dan Fausnaugh was the leading scorer. He fired away at the basket 18 times, making eight field goals. At the foul line he had a perfect 4-for-4 effort for a 20-point total.

Royce Woolever scored 15 points, nine of them in the first quarter when he connected on four of five shots from the field and made his only chance at the charity stripe. Woolever had 13 rebounds.

Dennis Karshner scored 14 points and pulled down 12 rebounds for the Braves. Woolever and Karshner are the only two seniors on the Logan Elm squad, but constitute all the height for the Braves. Karshner is 6 feet 3 inches tall.

Dan Ankrum scored 11 points for the Braves. D. J. Humphrey three and Mark Knece, a sophomore, two. Dale Hartley was the only other Logan Elm player to see action in the tilt.

The statistics in the game were just as close as the score.

Both teams made 24 field goals. Logan Elm shot 55 times and Westfall 58 times from the field.

BIGAM made his first shot but missed his second. The Braves got the rebound and immediately called time out to set up the final play. The desperation attempt just before the buzzer missed its mark, and the Westfall players and fans went wild.

It is the third time in the four tournament meetings between the teams that Westfall has won. It is the second sectional co-championship for the Mustangs.

Westall will now play Riverview Valley at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Ohio State Fairgrounds Coliseum. The Mustangs will carry a 14-4 record into the district tournament.

WESTFALL had two more opportunities at the foul line, making 18 of 25. Logan Elm made 17 of 23 charity tosses.

In the rebounding department, Westfall held a slight 54-52 edge. The Mustangs had 20 turnovers and Logan Elm had 19.

Logan Elm started the game with a wild scoring flurry and at one time in the first quarter led, 20-5. The Braves made 11 of 16 shots from the field in the first quarter, a 69 per cent scoring average.

But they couldn't keep up the torrid pace. At the end of the first eight minutes of play, the score was 25-14.

The two teams battled on even terms in the second quarter and an 11 point margin still separated them at halftime when the score was 41-30.

Both teams were in foul trouble in the first half. Blair was charged with three personal fouls and Bigam was charged with four before the second quarter came to an end.

WOOLEVER and Karshner both picked up their third personal early in the second quarter.

Westfall had used its man to man defense throughout the first half, but when the Mustangs came back on the floor after the intermission, Coach Paul Hoskins went into

8 Aces Still Missing From Cards' Deck

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

What kind of Card game is this with no aces?

That's the question the St. Louis Cardinals might well be asking themselves because if some of those aces don't show up by opening day, the Cards could be playing a losing hand.

Eight aces still are missing from the Cardinals spring training deck, demanding a sweeter pot—a $500,000-plus pot.

The missing include Bob Gibson, who is trying to trump the Cardinals for $125,000; Lou Brock and Curt Flood, who want $100,000 each; Mike Shannon, $70,000; Dal Maxvill, $55,000; Julian Javier, $45,000; and Nelson Briles and Ray Washburn, who each want a healthy raise.

However, Manager Red Schoendienst shrugged off his Card problems, saying "I play the hand I'm dealt. I've lived too long to let worry get to me."

The eight, of course, are big aces counted on to help win a third consecutive National League pennant for the Cardinals, who did manage to sign pitcher Steve Carlton Sunday, the day after the March 1 deadline that makes all unsigned players official holdouts.

Other clubs also are having trouble coming up with aces, but none so acute as the Cardinals, unless it's Minnesota. The Twins still are missing 12 players, including such starters as Dean Chance, Jim Kaat, Ted Uhlaender and John Roseboro.

Sonny Siebert is holding out with Cleveland, Joe Torre with Atlanta, Boog Powell with Baltimore and Rick Monday and Reggie Jackson with Oakland among the other well-known absences.

The Twins did sign Bob Allison, Rich Reese and Bruce Look Sunday, but the demands of veteran catcher Jerry Zimmerman proved too much. It was not known what Zimmerman, who got $15,000 last year, was asking after a .204 season, but it caused the Twins to sell him conditionally to San Diego.

The biggest signer of the day was Al Kaline, Detroit's 16-year standout who ended a one-day holdout by signing for an estimated $85,000, the highest contract in Tiger history. Kaline received about $75,000 last season.

Norm Cash also signed with the Tigers. Others who filled in pacts were Larry Dierker of Houston, Gary Bell of Seattle and Vic Davallio of California. Davallio, reported missing for about 10 days from his Venezuela home, showed up in camp Sunday.

Juan Marichal and Willie McCovey still are unsigned at San Francisco, but Marichal says he will show up in camp Wednesday and McCovey was expected to arrive today. Marichal was asking a raise from the $100,000 he got last year and the Giants say he will get it—if it is not too much.

Los Angeles still was missing seven players, including Don Drysdale, but all were working out with the club. The Dodgers also fired rookie pitcher John Duffie $100 for breaking curfew on his second day in camp.

Another rookie, outfielder Andy Finlay of Atlanta, was hospitalized after an automobile accident at West Palm Beach, Fla., but the club said it believed he suffered only minor injuries.

Powell's holdout could leave him without a job, at least temporarily, even when he does return. Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said Frank Robinson would play first base during the first intrasquad game. Weaver had said earlier that Robinson might play first against left-handed pitchers during the season.

Princessnesian Wins Final Race In Santa Margarita

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Princessnesian made her racing swan song a winning one in the Santa Margarita, and gimp-keened Juvenile John scored an upset in the John B. Campbell. But praise for their accomplishments was dimmed by concern over Dark Mirage.

Dark Mirage, Lloyd I. Miller's sensational little miss who was the 1968 champion 3-year-old filly, broke down in Saturday's $100,000 invitational Santa Margarita at Santa Anita.

X-rays were to be made today of Dark Mirage's right front leg, but trainer Everett King said Sunday, "It's not as bad as I thought. I don't think it is broken."

Jockey Don Pierce got Princessnesian, a 5-year-old mare who just barely lost to stablemate Gamely in the 1968 Santa Margarita, home by a neck over Guest Room for the $60,000 first prize Saturday. Sinking Spring was another neck back after 1 1/4 miles, timed in 1:53.

Princessnesian is now scheduled to stand with Bold Ruler, America's premier sire.

Juvenile John, John A. Heberger's 4-year-old colt with bone chips in both knees, produced one of the biggest winning mutual payoffs, $30.80, in the history of Bowie's Campbell when he beat Barbs Delight by 1 1/4 lengths. Time for the $115,000, 1 1/16 mile race was 1:43.

In another rich race over the weekend, Gustave Ring's Blanche II, supplemented for $5,000, took the lead at the start and ran 1 1/4 miles in 2:29 to beat his stablemate, Czar Alexander, by a length in the $111,350 Hialeah Turf Cup at Hialeah.

Dark Mirage, winner of 11th straight previous starts, the last 10 of them stakes, pulled up lame after rounding the clubhouse turn—and the mishap might have been caused by a piece of paper that blew on to the track.

"I don't know if she jumped that paper on the first turn or not, it's possible," jockey Eddie Belmonte said. "She might have jumped that paper while she was changing leads and landed wrong, I don't know."

Of the injury, King said, "I think she just jammed the sesamoid bone up."

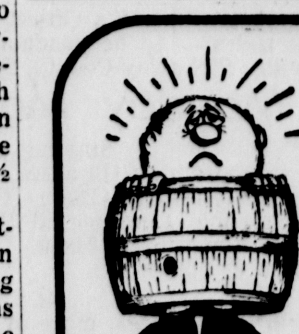

In other national features last Saturday, Wingover scored in the $25,000-added San Francisco Mile at Golden Gate Field, Foolish Prince won the $17,375 LeComte Handicap at the New Orleans Fair Grounds, Ruler In Gold took the $15,000 Southwest Handicap at Oaklawn Park and Dologe won the $7,500 Block Island Handicap at Lincoln Downs when Evon On Monday was disqualified.

Of the injury, King said, "I think she just jammed the hock bone up."

In other national features Saturday, Wingerow scored the $25,000-added San Francisco Mile at Golden Gate Field, while Prince won the $17,500 Comte Handicap at the New Orleans Fair Grounds, Ruffalo took the $15,000 South American Handicap at Oaklawn Park, and Dologe won the $7,500 Lincoln Handicap at Lincoln Park when Even On Monday was qualified.

Astronauts Insulated By 'Local' Products

"Kapton", one of the critically important materials in use in today's space flight, is a product of Circleville's DuPont plant — the only plant in the country to produce this material.

"Kapton", a polyimide film, is thin and flexible, yet has excellent physical strength. It has no melting point, and when aluminized, it provides thermal insulation.

Although "Kapton" was not originally developed for application to the space program, because of its unique properties it was brought to the attention of the engineering firm responsible for building the lunar modules. "Kapton" was not only approved but became a specified material for use in construction of space vehicles.

The most visible use of "Kapton" is on the exterior of the space vehicle where layer upon layer of the product, coated with a thin deposit of aluminum, is bolted into the framework of the lunar module and serves as thermal insulation.

Aluminized "Kapton" is also used in the astronauts' suits to help protect them against temperatures from minus 250 degrees C to 325 degrees C.

In a minute, but vitally important way, 165 Circleville area men, at work in "Kapton" production, are engaged in the U. S. space flight program and the present space flight mission.

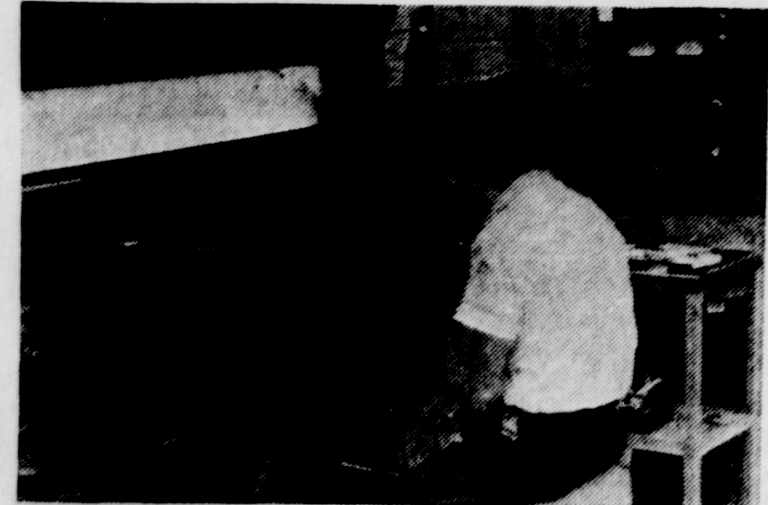

THERMAL INSULATION — Dr. Don B. Schiewetz, "Kapton" plant manager, ruffles through the many layers of DuPont's aluminized "Kapton" and "Mylar" that covers the exterior surfaces of the Lunar Modules where it serves as insulation against intense thermal radiation from the sun.

SHIPPING PREPARATION — Following the processing and inspection of "Kapton", it is readied for shipment. Uniformly-dressed men guide the pre-wound rolls of plastic film through the section of the plant where it is securely wrapped in a durable DuPont plastic for shipment.

WINDING PROCESS — The polyimide film, amber in color, is being wound into cylindrical rolls of a specific weight. The plastic film as it appears here has not been aluminized — a further process when it is intended for thermal insulation.

INSPECTION — The finished product is unrolled and passed over a sheet of frosted illuminated glass panel for minute inspection for flaws or imperfections before being packaged for shipment.

Miss Ely Honored At Easter Seal State Meeting

CAPTAIN AND FRIEND — Captain Kangaroo of television fame holds Sharon Ely, daughter of Patrolman and Mrs. Robert Ely on his lap. Sharon represented Pickaway County at the state-wide Easter Seal meeting Sunday in Columbus.

Sharon Ely, daughter of Patrolman and Mrs. Robert Ely, was honored at the seventh annual meeting and luncheon of the Ohio Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. (The Easter Seal Society), at the opening of the Society's annual fund-raising program in Columbus Sunday.

Sharon was one of 30 representative children who participated in the "Parade of Starlets" program featuring special guest star "Captain Kangaroo" of CBS Television.

The Captain paid special tribute to the participating children who represent the thousands of children in the state receiving Easter Seal services. Miss Dee Wedmore, Youth Coordinator for the H. S. Pogue Co. of Cincinnati, introduced the children in a child size fashion-show program. Sharon's attire was a Kodell Polyester Cotton dress, apricot in color.

The bodice of the dress was plain apricot and the skirt dotted swiss. Her dress was accented with white gloves, black patent purse and shoes. She was accompanied to the meeting by her mother and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ely.

TEEN Queens from many of the county units of the state society were introduced to the assembly in the afternoon program. Sandy Rich daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rich, was escorted to the luncheon event by Jim Stillwagon, a member of the Rose Bowl team of Ohio State University.

turn through tunnel to the command module.

Fourth Day
McDivitt and Schweickart return to LEM. Schweickart dons self-supporting back pack and 25-foot cord, opens hatch and makes his way hand-over-hand on railings to the command module hatch. Scott helps him get lower part of his body into command module. Then Schweickart returns to LEM along reverse route. He stands outside on LEM platform, taking pictures and sending a teled vision broadcast. Total time outside: 2 hours 10 minutes. McDivitt and Schweickart return to command module.

Fifth Day
Returning to LEM through the tunnel, McDivitt and Schweickart separate the vehicle and fly 109 miles away from the command module. Executing maneuvers that two astronauts will make in taking off from the moon, they fly a complex rendezvous back to a linkup with Scott. They return to the main ship and kick the LEM free so that ground controllers can test-fire its ascent engine, the powerplant that will lift men off the moon.

Sixth through Ninth Days
Relatively light schedule, with crew making extended checks of the Apollo systems. They conduct navigation checks, take pictures and perform experiments with earth-aimed cameras.

Tenth Day
Astronauts fire spacecraft engine, re-enter atmosphere and parachute to a landing in the Atlantic Ocean 250 miles east southeast of Bermuda.

Two Resign Health Posts

Pickaway County Board of Health met Friday to accept the resignations of two members. Homer Long submitted his resignation due to a possible conflict of interest. Long has been employed by the State Division of Parks as a lake officer.

A. Ray Plum asked the board to be relieved of his position. Plum's term ends this year.

The County Advisory Committee will meet Monday to select new members for the board. The committee is composed of representatives of the township boards of trustees and villages governments.
